Learn how mind-body connections affect inflammation. This program describes how diet and an anti-inflammatory lifestyle can improve the quality of health including stress, pain, mood, anxiety, and sleep.

Participants completing this 6-hour program should be able to:

1. State how diet and stress contribute to chronic inflammation.
2. List anti-inflammatory drugs and foods.
3. Name appetite regulating foods.
4. Describe foods indicated for cardio-metabolic disorders and hypertension.
5. Foods indicated to reduce GI tract inflammation.
6. Review the connection between diet, mood, and neuroinflammation.
7. Name foods that can improve sleep and are neuroprotective.
8. Describe habits that promote an anti-inflammatory lifestyle.

Understanding Inflammation and Nutritional Interventions

- The Connection Between Stress and Inflammation: cortisol, the adrenal hormone associated with chronic stress, can be toxic to the brain and adversely affect most chronic disorders.
- Anti-Inflammatory Nutrients: steroidal and non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drugs and nutrients, e.g., ginger, willow, and curcumin.
- Chronic Pain: affects anxiety, mood, and sleep; nutrients that can reduce inflammation-related musculoskeletal, joint, and neuropathic pain; reducing dependence on opioid analgesics.
- Anti-Inflammatory Foods: each disorder of chronic inflammation has distinct combinations of inflammatory cytokines, e.g., cherries, garlic, ginger (IL-1), curcumin, resveratrol (IL-6), garlic (IL-8), fish oil, curcumin, garlic, ginger (TNF).
- Appetite Regulation: anti-inflammatory, resistant starches, low-glycemic complex carbohydrates, fiber and healthy fats; a fact check on popular diets, e.g., intermittent fasting.
- Cardio-Metabolic Disorders: the effectiveness of almonds, capsaicin, flax, eggs, green tea, pectin-containing foods and dietary patterns.
- Hypertension: garlic, magnesium, cocoa, and curcumin when used in combination with antihypertensives—a fact check.
- GI Inflammation: celiac disease, inflammatory bowel disorders (Crohn's and related conditions); role of an elimination diet.
- The Gut-Brain Axis, Mood, Anxiety and Diet: persistent depression and generalized anxiety are linked to GI inflammation; the pros and cons of probiotics and GI-healthy foods.
- Mood, Antidepressants and Diet: anti-inflammatory effects of antidepressants; nutrient profiling for depression, e.g., omega-3s; long-term benefits of a plant-based diet.
- Neuroprotective Foods: aspects of the Mediterranean, Okinawan and plant-based diets, reduced neuroinflammation, and lower risk of Alzheimer's disease.
- Sleep Helps Remove Neurotoxins: the clearance of inflammatory beta-amyloid and tau occurs during restorative, slow-wave sleep; the connection between diet and restorative sleep.

Habits of An Anti-Inflammatory Lifestyle

- Healthy Sources of Stress: stress-resilient habits that protect the brain and body by preparing us to cope with everyday and life-altering physical and mental stressors.
- Anti-Inflammatory Physical Activity: how moderate and regular exercise stimulates anti-inflammatory cytokines and normalizes cortisol.
- Meaning-Based Anti-Inflammatory Activities: reaching out to friends and loved ones produces wellbeing and reduces stress-related inflammation.
- Adopting Guidelines of the Inflammatory Food Index: identifying the most anti-inflammatory foods, spices, and nutrients.
- Preventing and Managing Chronic Conditions: an evidence-based approach that supports incorporating phytochemicals in a plant-based diet.
- Nutritional Strategies for the Aging Brain: natural sources of trace elements, vitamin B complex, C, D, E, CoQ10, lipoic acid; cognitive-protecting nutrients including green tea, blueberries, and curcumin.
- Restorative Sleep: lifestyle guidelines for improving sleep quality in health professionals and older adults through mindfulness meditation to deepen sleep while reducing depression, fatigue and inflammation.

ABOUT THE INSTRUCTOR

Sally Fisher, MD, MS has been an Assistant Clinical Professor at the University of New Mexico in Preventive and Integrative Medicine, a Division of Internal Medicine. She is board certified in Preventive Medicine, in Integrative and Holistic Medicine, and as a Physician Nutrition Specialist.

Dr. Fisher has developed and taught national training programs for continuing education including "Psychological and Medical Benefits of a Plant-Rich Diet" and "Preventing Chronic Inflammation." Health care professionals attending her programs appreciate her clinical wisdom, compassion and humor.

Dr. Fisher will answer your questions in class, during the second half of the lunch break, and by email after the program adjourns.
