Advances in research have shed light on how the brain develops in the early years and how brain circuits mature and become wired in the adult brain.

These findings provide a much better understanding of the basis of developmental disorders and psychopathology that begins in early life.

Participants completing this program should be able to:

1. Identify the development of key cognitive abilities.
2. Recognize key aspects of the maturation of brain circuits, especially in emotional and reward systems.
3. Identify mechanisms underlying developmental disorders such as autism spectrum disorders, ADHD, Down syndrome, and schizophrenia.
4. Discuss the role of early life experience and how infants can inherit the trauma and stress experienced by their parents.
5. Review the role of early life stress and fragmentation of maternal care in development of later adult psychopathology including depression and PTSD.
6. Name strategies to better understand and help children and adolescents with vulnerabilities that increase risk of mental disorders.

Development of Cognitive Abilities

- Learning and Memory
- Language
- Non-Verbal Abilities

Brain Circuits and Early Childhood Development

- What Makes Us Human? Brain size, circuits, intelligence that enable tool use, language, and imagining the future

ABOUT THE INSTRUCTOR

Mike Yassa, Ph.D., Associate Professor in the Department of Neurobiology and Behavior and Neurology and Director of the Center for the Neurobiology of Learning and Memory at the University of California, Irvine. Dr. Yassa and his colleagues recently discovered that a fragmented, unpredictable connection between mother and child is a key factor that predicts developmental disorders of learning, memory, and impulse control.

Dr. Yassa has received multiple awards including from the National Science Foundation, National Institute on Aging, National Institute on Mental Health, and private foundations.

An inspiring and inspired instructor, Dr. Yassa is one of the most highly rated instructors at Irvine. Dr. Yassa has won awards for research and teaching excellence and teaches programs in human neuropsychology, learning and memory, brain dysfunction and repair.
